ADKINS HURT, CHUM KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Son of Congressman Loses Life In Auto Wreck Near Delaware Friday.

Joseph Adkins, son of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Adkins, of Circleville, was injured in an automobile accident near Delaware Friday night in which James T. Begg, Jr., 19, son of former Congressman James T. Begg, of Sandusky, was killed and W. G. Caples, son of Brig. Gen. William Goff Caples, of the Canal Zones, was also injured. All were students at Kenyon college at Gambier.

The accident occurred when the roadster which Begg was driving went off a bridge at the south edge of Strafford on the Delaware road. Adkins suffered a wrenching back and Caples suffered a fractured leg.

The three boys visited Delaware to make preliminary arrangements with William Radcliffe, a student of Ohio Wesleyan university, whose home is in Williamsport regarding a fraternity convention to be held in Gambier.

On their return home Begg took the wheel. He collided with the automobile of Coach Ray Dietrick of Ohio Wesleyan University.

SWERVES FROM ROAD

Sheriff Velez Mann and Joe Davis, motor policeman of Delaware, who were pursuing the auto which they said ran through a red light at Delaware, were witnesses of the accident. They report that the car, going at a high rate of speed around a curve below Strafford, swerved from the road, hit and broke a telephone pole and leaped from a bridge. The auto fell 40 feet into a ravine, turning over in its fall and throwing out its occupants. Begg landed on his head in shallow water and was instantly killed. Adkins, not knowing that Begg was dead, held his companion's head above water until aid arrived.

BOTTLE IS FOUND

Officer Davis said he immediately searched the car, and found a liquor bottle in it. A few drops remained in the container, he declared. The policeman said he had this bottle in his possession and that several witnesses would swear that he took the article from the partly submerged car.

Davis declared he had received several complaints that the roadster was violating the speed limits. He also charged that Sheriff Mann had made a trip to Sunbury main on Delaware Friday afternoon after he had received a report that three youths in a roadster parked along the Sunbury-Deleware pike, were drinking. The car bore the same license number as the auto which Begg was driving.

Adkins was questioned by police. He stayed at a fraternity house in Delaware Friday night. Congressman Begg and Judge Adkins were immediately notified of the accident. Mrs. Mary P. Carruth, sister of Adkins, and her husband, of Chillicothe, drove to Delaware late Friday night to see whether brother who was not seriously injured.

BEGG KNOWN HERE

The automobile in which the trio was riding, was the property of Leonard Dodge, Kenyon student and adopted son of Col. C. R. House of Cleveland.

Young Begg was well known in Circleville, having visited here several times as the guest of Adkins and George Hoffer, both of whom were his roommates at Kenyon college.

Straitsville's Liquor Scarce

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O., April 27.—New Straitsville isn't the liquor oasis that it was once reported to be.

State dry agents found that out. Known all over the state as one of the "wettest towns in Ohio" it seems to have the "name but not the game," according to the remark of one state dry agent here today.

Sheriff Clifford Wilson, and a state prohibition agent, accompanied by 20 undercover men, swooped down upon this little town.

None of New Straitsville's much-talked-of and famous "mine-run moonshine," or any other brand was found by the agents.

The trip was pretty much of a "water haul" and only netted one pint of whiskey, found in the rear room of a local restaurant.

Several dry agents from Columbus are reported to have assisted in the raid, which was said to have been ordered by State Prohibition Commissioner L. R. Bechtman.

PROSECUTION OF MELLON IS BEING SOUGHT

Minority Report In Senate
Alleges Secretary Holds Job Illegally.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Andrew W. Mellon will be branded as ineligible for the post of secretary of the treasury and declared guilty of holding it illegally since 1921 in a minority report from the senate judiciary committee, even though a majority decides in the Pennsylvania's favor, it was learned today.

The minority report, attacking Mellon's right to remain in the Hoover cabinet and demanding his immediate removal, will be filed by Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebr., chairman of the committee, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, (D) of Montana, one of the senate's greatest lawyers. The minority report naturally will throw the question of Mellon's cabinet eligibility back into the senate, which will have to make a decision on an issue which President Hoover hoped to avoid by retaining Mellon in his cabinet without a reappointment.

FINE IS PENALTY

If the senate should uphold this minority view, the question would be thrown into the federal courts since their contention is that Mellon is violating a special law forbidding the secretary of treasury from being "concerned or interested" in the trade or commerce. If the courts found Mellon guilty of violating this law, he would be fined $5,000, removed from office and forever after barred from holding any other federal office.

Mellon already has told the committee, by letter, that he owns stock in the Aluminum Co. of America, the Gulf Oil Refining Co., and the Standard Car Construction Co. He stated he merely owned minority stock in these concerns and had resigned from their management when he became secretary of the treasury.

ADmits CONFERENCE

In a recent suit brought by George D. Haskell, a New England business man, against the Aluminum Co. of America, Mellon however filed a deposition, saying he had conferred with Arthur V. Davis, president of the Aluminum Co., on business affairs of the company. The secretary even told of inviting Davis and some other persons to his house for a business conference.

The question before the senate, therefore, will be whether ownership of a substantial part of the stock of a company, actively engaged in business—an ownership which led Mellon into holding business conferences with its president—is to "indirectly be concerned or interested" in business. The majority of the senate committee very likely will find it does not—but the senate itself will render the final decision.

2 ARRESTED AFTER MISHAP

Columbus Man Is Seriously Injured
When Hit By Auto
On Jackson Pike.

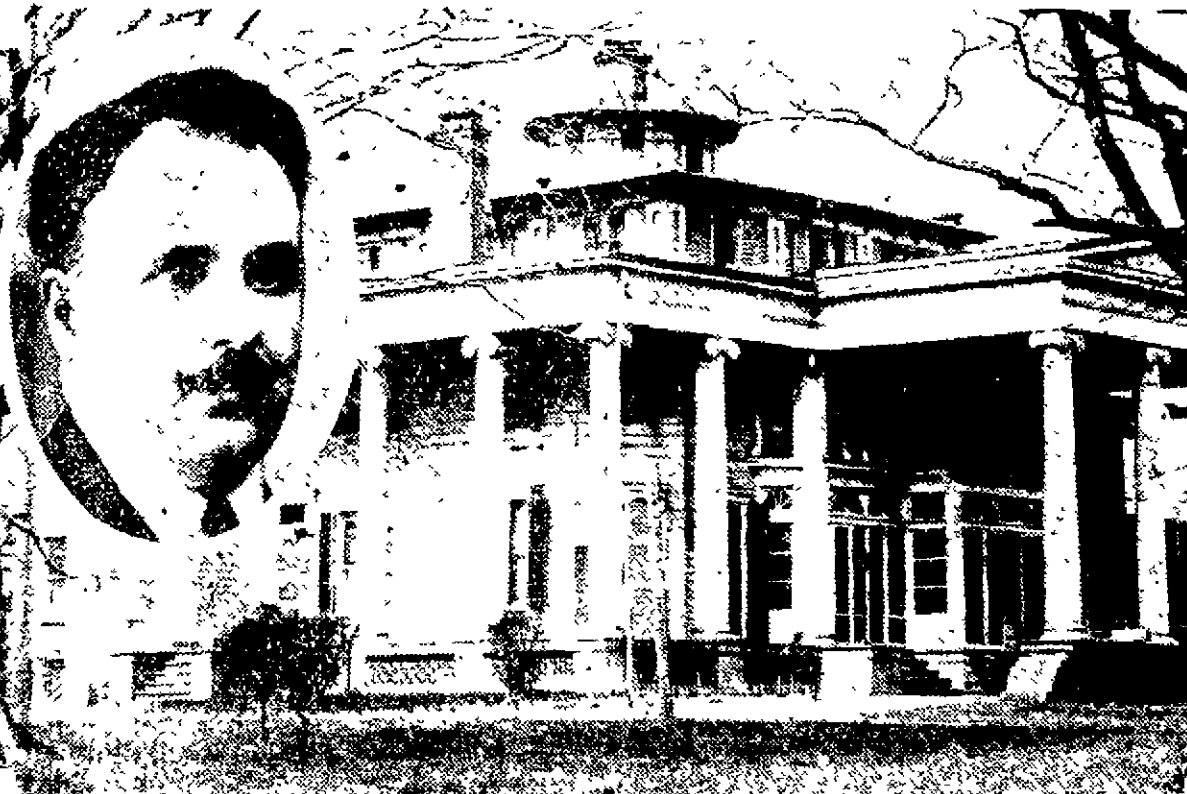

A man is seriously injured in a Columbus hospital and two others are under arrest in the Franklin co. jail as the result of an automobile accident Friday afternoon on the Jackson-pike in Pickaway county, two miles south of the Franklin co. line.

John Lynn, 24, 100 Deshler-ave. Columbus, was gravely injured. He is at St. Carmel hospital suffering from a fractured skull, broken arm and internal injuries.

He was struck when he stepped from a steam roller he was driving in Jackson-pike two miles south of the Franklin-Pickaway county line. Driver of the machine that struck Lynn failed to stop.

Later Harry H. Perry and Howard E. Keith, both of Cleveland reported the accident to Columbus police. Both were arrested and delivered to Sheriff Harry T. Paul, who is holding them pending investigation of the accident.

Mystery in Millionaire's Disappearance

Fiction could not portray anything more mysterious than the disappearance of Dr. Charles Brancati, inquest of New York, from his home, the Gouverneur Morris mansion, above. Threatening letters to him and letters to friends purporting to be from the doctor asking them for large sums of money, all add to the mystery.

In one room of the house was a note and in another a bullet hole and a spent bullet. Dr. Brancati has not been seen since he left home last November and although friends have been carrying on a private search for him the police were not notified until recently.

WASHINGTON'S PLAY IS HIT

Comedy Well Presented By Members of Senior Class
At Township School.

At the rise of the curtain, on the senior class play, "That's One on Bill," at Washington-town school Friday night, there was not even standing room. Many people from Columbus were there and all neighboring towns were well represented.

The characters were well chosen and all should be congratulated upon their splendid acting. The comic parts were especially well played by Florence Beavers as Rosie, the Dutch maid, and Howard Leist as "Puffy," fat, jolly and hungry but always ready to tell a story. They kept the audience in a continual uproar. Orville Jones, as "Bill," the leading man was cured of the habit of liking flashy girls before the evening was over.

Dorothy Davis, Bill's sister "Lil," did splendidly. She showed determination in carrying out her plans throughout the play.

Elba Boyer, known to some as a movie queen, "Patricia Pansy La Gloria," spent the whole evening enlivening the hearts of all the boys, then marries a rich bachelor.

Devin Smith as "Harry," did his part well in being "Lil's" sweetheart. Ralph De Long, as Uncle Jimmy, the rich bachelor, found that you could not dictate to the heart and did very well in letting his heart rule him. Evelyn Yokum as Bill's and Lil's mother was not so old fashioned and proved to be a very dear mother to all.

Agnes Frazier, as "Mab" in her sweet, sympathetic manner made "Bill" fall in love with love. Marvin Leist, as "Denise," the party fighter, did not prove to be such a good fighter where Patricia was concerned. But at the close of the play she was content.

The Shaker High school orchestra furnished music before the play and between acts.

A laureate sermon will be preached Sunday night April 28 at the school auditorium by Rev. G. J. Troutman of the Trinity Lutheran church. Music will be furnished by the high school. The day program at Washington will be on Thursday, May 2 at 8 o'clock the eighth grade concert will be held in the gymnasium. A picnic dinner at noon will follow the athletic events in the afternoon.

Demonstration Cattle Give Valuable Data To Feeders of Pickaway County

Agent Lewis Explains Findings
Concerning Various Types of Rations.

By H. S. LEWIS

(Pickaway-co Farm Agent)

One hundred head of calves which have been on feed since the first of December completed a year of the state with the stop in Cincinnati Friday. These cattle were exhibited first on April 19 during the Livestock Day program at the Ohio Experiment station. They were exhibited at the livestock yards at Kenton, on Monday, April 22; at the cooperative livestock yards in Columbus, on April 24 and in Cincinnati, Friday.

Following the exhibit in Cincinnati, these cattle were sold at public auction. Pickaway-co cattle feeders who do not have an opportunity to see these cattle will be interested in the results secured through the demonstrations. The 1000 head were divided into five lots of 20 calves each. Lots 1-2 were designed to show the comparative merits between oil meal and cotton seed meal as a protein supplement to the ration. Lot No. 1 received 66 pounds shelled corn; 9.1 pounds corn silage; 1.9 pounds mixed hay; and 2 pounds oil meal. Lot No. 2 received 6.6 shelled corn; 8.7 pounds silage; 1.8 pounds mixed hay and 2 pounds of cotton seed meal. The average daily gain on lot No. 1 was 2.07 while the average daily gain on lot No. 2 was 1.92. The cost of 100 pound gain was $9.06 on lot No. 1 and $9.89 on lot No. 2. This comparison shows that the two pounds of oil meal were slightly more efficient in producing gains on the calves.

Lot No. 3 was fed two pounds of whole soy beans as a means of determining the efficiency of soy beans as compared to oil meal or cotton seed meal as the protein supplement to a corn, silage and mixed hay ration. The cattle in this lot gained 1.79 pounds per day, the feed cost per hundred pounds gain was $9.87. The two pounds of soy beans lowered the feed consumption which resulted in the lower daily gains. It was on feed than either of the other 2 lots. The results on the soy bean lot of cattle however, demonstrate the fact that the farmer can grow his own protein supplements and secure very satisfactory results through the utilization of split and whole soy beans in his beef cattle ration.

Lots 4 and 5 were fed one pound of oil meal and one pound of cotton seed meal respectively to secure a comparison with lots 1-2 as to whether two pounds of protein concentrate or one pound is most efficient. These calves weighed in each case 404 pounds and the results secured did not warrant the use of two pounds of protein concentrate unless the feeder is interested in getting rapid gains. The smallest calves in lots 4-5 made lower gains than did the light calves in lots 1-2 which shows that apparently two pounds of protein concentrate is more important with the light calves than with the larger ones.

The information afforded through the Experiment Station records and through the steer demonstration records conducted through the cooperation of Pickaway-co steer feeders are contributing a great deal toward the production of more satisfactory beef cattle returns.

Cattle well bought, intelligently fed and cooperatively marketed are giving a creditably accounting of themselves throughout Pickaway county.

KILLED IN CRASH

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Mrs. Grace Newson 48 was killed when an auto mobile in which she was a passenger, crashed into a pole here early today. Three other persons in the car were seriously injured and were removed to a hospital.

NEARLY 500 ARE INJURED IN DISASTER

Appeals For Aid Sent Out By Stricken Communities Barred
In Wreckage.

ATLANTA, GA., April 27.—The human toll in storm ravaged central Georgia and South Carolina mounted today to at least 92 dead, 447 injured and more than 500 homeless and faced by the greater menace of plague as hastily strung telegraph lines carried heart-breaking stories and appeals for aid northward.

Red Cross workers and voluntary aids groped their way through almost impassable highways to reach the stricken sector and give succor to stranded families who gazed in bull-eyed, apathetic hopelessness at the ruin wrought by the tornadoes which swept through the two states late Thursday night.

As salvaging went forward, protected in some cases by National guardsmen to forestall possible looting, revised estimates of the property loss placed the damage at exceeding $1,250,000. Even this figure will mount as communication with the storm-swept area is re-established, it is believed.

APPEAL FOR AID

Citizens of Statesboro, Ga., who were cut off entirely from the outside world for a day, have broadcast a call for help in their fight against the plague menace. A serious situation is said to exist at Statesboro. This sorely-distressed town harbors many injured facing danger of infection and with physicians handicapped by lack of medical supplies.

The storm swept in a wide swath from Macon, southeast through Bibb, Laurens, Dooly and Chandler counties, its freakish course stream with dead and injured and leaving demolished buildings, impassable highways and severed communications in its wake.

Reports from the stricken Georgia towns reported the known toll as follows, with many more feared dead in the outlying sections between the towns: Statesboro, 34 killed, 70 injured; Cochran, 20 killed, 110 injured; Metter, 24 killed, 50 injured; Dexter, 6 killed, 17 injured, and Rentz, 1 killed, 10 injured.

SOUTH CAROLINA HIT

Meagre telegraphic dispatches trickling in from isolated South Carolina communities placed the death list in that state, conservative at 7 and the injured at 20.

With the re-stringing of telephone and telegraph lines, the first eye-witness stories reached here. Each told of the fury of the rain and wind storms that struck without warning.

No twisting clouds or the peculiar eerie whistling that usually precedes tornadoes, heralded the coming of the twister, the storm sufferers said.

Many persons were caught in the streets and dashed to death, others sought safety in their homes and were killed when their dwellings were demolished and still others met death on the farms and highways.

52 ARE ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAIDS

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Bootleg "casualties" continued to mount rapidly in Cleveland today as a result of the axe and crowbar campaign against speakeasies by police. Central station records showed a total of 52 men and women under arrest on liquor law violation charges this morning and scores more booked for suspicion and investigation.

Many known "joints" have been raided without arrests, for the reason that there was no one present when the wrecking crew arrived and beer was found in several such places and bars' merrymen cash registers and furniture were smashed.

One of the features of the raid early today was the smashing of a $5000 alleged brewery in the downtown district.

4000 SLAUGHTERED

LONDON, April 27.—The Daily Chronicle today printed an uncensored report from Paris that Russian soldiers in the Tomsk district of Siberia rounded up and slaughtered 4,000 peasants with machine guns.

Music, one of the important features of the evening, will be by the Capital University quartet. Professor M. C. Warren will present the diplomas to the graduates.

Demonstration Cattle Give Valuable Data To Feeders of Pickaway County

Agent Lewis Explains Findings
Concerning Various
Types of Rations.

By H. S. LEWIS

(Pickaway-co Farm Agent)

One hundred head of calves which have been on feed since the first of December completed a tour of the state with the stop in Cincinnati Friday. These cattle were exhibited first on April 19 during the Livestock Day program at the Ohio Experiment station. They were exhibited at the livestock yards at Kenton, on Monday, April 22; at the cooperative livestock yards in Columbus, on April 24 and in Cincinnati, Friday.

Following the exhibit in Cincinnati, these cattle were sold at public auction. Pickaway-co cattle feeders who do not have an opportunity to see these cattle will be interested in the results secured through the demonstrations. The 1000 head were divided into five lots of 20 calves each. Lots 1-2 were designed to show the comparative merits between oil meal and cotton seed meal as a protein supplement to the ration.

Lot No. 1 received 6.6 pounds

shelled corn; 9.1 pounds corn silage; 1.9 pounds mixed hay; and 2 pounds oil meal. Lot No. 2 received 6.6 shelled corn; 8.7 pounds silage; 1.8 pounds mixed hay and 2 pounds of cotton seed meal. The average daily gain on lot No. 1 was 2.07 while the average daily gain on lot No. 2 was 1.92. The cost of 100 pound gain was $9.00 on lot No. 1 and $9.89 on lot No. 2. This comparison shows that the two pounds of oil meal were slightly more efficient in producing gains on the calves.

Lot No. 3 was fed two pounds of whole soy beans as a means of determining the efficiency of soy beans as compared to oil meal or cotton seed meal as the protein supplement to a corn, silage and mixed hay ration. The cattle in this lot gained 1.79 pounds per day, the feed cost per hundred pounds gain was $9.87. The two pounds of soy beans lowered the feed consumption which resulted in the lower daily gains. It was on feed than either of the other 2 lots. The results on the soy bean lot of cattle however, demonstrate the fact that the farmer can grow his own protein supplements and secure very satisfactory results through the utilization of split and whole soy beans in his beef cattle ration.

AID TO FEEDERS

Lots 4 and 5 were fed one pound of oil meal and one pound of cotton seed meal respectively to secure a comparison with lots 1-2 as to whether two pounds of protein concentrate or one pound is most efficient. These calves weighed in each case 404 pounds and the results secured did not warrant the use of two pounds of protein concentrate unless the feeder is interested in getting rapid gains. The smallest calves in lots 4-5 made lower gains than did the light calves in lots 1-2 which shows that apparently two pounds of protein concentrate is more important with the light calves than with the larger ones.

The information afforded through the Experiment Station records and through the steer demonstration records conducted through the cooperation of Pickaway-co steer feeders are contributing a great deal toward the production of more satisfactory beef cattle returns.

Cattle well bought, intelligently fed, and cooperatively marketed are giving a creditably accounting of themselves throughout Pickaway-co feed lots.

KILLED IN CRASH

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Mrs. Grace Newton, 48, was killed when an automobile in which she was a passenger skidded on a road to an electric light pole here early today. Three other persons in the car were seriously injured and were removed to a hospital.

TO SERENADE VETS

Lyman Bell will drive his calliope car to the government hospital in Chillicothe Sunday, where he will serenade the patients. This unique concert will be played under the direction of the Chillicothe chapter of the Red Cross.

NEARLY 500 ARE INJURED IN DISASTER

Appeals For Aid Sent Out By Stricken Communities Buried
In Wreckage.

ATLANTA, GA., April 27.—The human toll in storm ravaged central Georgia and South Carolina mounted today to at least 92 dead, 447 injured and more than 500 homeless and faced by the greater menace of plague as hastily strung telegraph lines carried heart-breaking stories and appeals for aid northward.

Red Cross workers and voluntary aids groped their way through almost impassable highways to reach the stricken sector and give succor to stranded families who gazed in bull-eyed, apathetic hopelessness at the ruin wrought by the tornadoes which swept through the two states late Thursday night.

As salvaging went forward, protected in some cases by National guardsmen to forestall possible looting, revised estimates of the property loss placed the damage at exceeding $1,250,000. Even this figure will mount as communication with the storm-swept area is re-established, it is believed.

APPEAL FOR AID

Citizens of Statesboro, Ga., who were cut off entirely from the outside world for a day, have broadcast a call for help in their fight against the plague menace. A serious situation is said to exist at Statesboro. "This sorely-distressed town harbors many injured facing danger of infection and with physicians handicapped by lack of medical supplies."

The storm swept in a wide swath from Macon, southeast through Bibb, Laurens, Dooly and Chandler counties, its freakish course stream with dead and injured and leaving demolished buildings, impassable highways and severed communications in its wake.

Reports from the stricken Georgia towns reported the known toll as follows, with many more feared dead in the outlying sections between the towns: Statesboro, 34 killed, 70 injured; Cochran, 20 killed, 110 injured; Metter, 24 killed, 50 injured; Dexter, 6 killed, 17 injured, and Rentz, 1 killed, 10 injured.

SOUTH CAROLINA HIT

Meagre telegraphic dispatches trickling in from isolated South Carolina communities placed the death list in that state, conservatively, at 7 and the injured at 20.

With the re-stringing of telephone and telegraph lines, the first eye-witness stories reached here. Each told of the fury of the rain and wind storms that struck without warning.

No twisting clouds or the peculiar, eerie whistling that usually precedes tornadoes, heralded the coming of the twister, the storm sufferers said.

Many persons were caught in the streets and dashed to death, others sought safety in their homes and were killed when their dwellings were demolished and still others met death on the farms and highways.

52 ARE ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAIDS

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Bootleg "casualties" continued to mount rapidly in Cleveland today as a result of the axe and crowbar campaign against speakeasies by police. Central station records showed a total of 52 men and women under arrest on liquor law violation charges this morning and scores more booked for suspicion and investigation.

Many known "joints" have been raided without arrests, for the reason that there was no one present when the wrecking crew arrived liquor and beer was found in several such places and bars, mirrors, cash registers and furniture were smashed.

One of the features of the raids early today was the smashing of a $50,000 alleged brewery in the downtown district.

4000 SLAUGHTERED

LONDON, April 27.—The Daily Chronicle today printed an unconfirmed report from Paris that Russian soldiers in the Tomsk district of Siberia rounded up and slaughtered 4,000 peasants with machine guns.

The Church Invites You

A RELIGIOUS MOTIVE

Roger Babson says, "The need of the hour is more religion everywhere, from the halls of Congress to the factories, mines and forests. It is one thing to talk about plans and policies of reformation, but without a religious motive, they are like a watch without a mainspring, or a body without the breath of life."

It is Christ that generates the needed religious motive; it is essential that Christ be received into the thought and heart life that he may generate the religious motive. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY.

D. Carl Yoder.

The Path of Brightness!

It is a pleasant path to follow, sunlit, pleasing to the eye, bringing happiness and increased real estate values. Because by the fact that we are judged by our homes—their exterior appearance, their gardens, grounds, flowers, fences and trellises, we should spend wisely in an effort to make our individual house "the most attractive on the street."

1.—To what extent was the prophecy fulfilled in righteous Israel?

2.—How explain the application of this prophecy to Israel and at the same time a prophecy of Christ?

3.—What part does suffering play in the education of great men? of all men?

4.—What foregleams of the atonement are seen in this lesson?

5.—What are "faces hid" from Christ?

6.—What passage in this lesson is the climax of the Old Testament? Why?

Dr. James H. Snowden says, "There are deep problems at the foot of the cross and mysteries centering in its wounds that surpass our power of comprehension, but the broad fact stands out etched against the sky of Calvary that he was there atoning for our sin and opening a way of divine forgiveness and peace. And yet the sacrifice of Christ is not complete and we are to be partakers of his sufferings and fill out that which they still lack."

OBEDIENCE TO AN IDEAL. "Children obey your parents" is a much overworked command. In the past, parental authority was imposed on the child, who was given no choice in the matter. "Because I said you should" was sufficient reason for action.

Some say, "Children are so independent now, they do as they please, they care little for parents' feelings and less yet for their authority."

LESSON PRAYER
"O, the dreadfulness of sin, our sin, that made our Lord, the Son of God suffer and die; help us to be conscious of the meaning of Christ's atonement for us and to so accept the mercies of God as to be partakers of the divine nature."

BOOK REVIEW
The Eternal God Revealing Himself, by Cooper, The Evangelical Press, gives a convincing presentation of the great question, the nature of the Holy Sovereign of the Universe and his revealed attitude toward our race.

Important To Me, Slattery, Pilgrim Press, challenges young people to make an honest penetrating study of themselves, their friends their religion and helps them to discover a religion which can thrive in this modern age.

Church Forum

1.—How Promote Missionary

Reading in the Church? There should be some definite plan, since effective missionary education does not simply happen; the Sunday school, young people's meetings, prayer meetings, church nights, brotherhood meetings may be organizations through which missionary reading may be carried on. Some person or committee should be selected to promote the program. The following methods have been used with success in many churches:—

Have a lending library composed of carefully selected books on missionary subjects, well written, up-to-date, accurate and covering the main aspects of missionary work. Books which fail to give a true picture of present conditions and needs, whether because they are too old or because of faulty authorship, should be eliminated.

One of the most important items is to work out some plan of having the books read, as a library is of value as it is used. In one church, bulletin boards were put in the church vestibule and in each department of the school, on which were posted weekly notices of special books with some catchy statement provoking the reading of the book. Current events having missionary interest published in periodicals may be posted on the bulletin board. In another church a brief review of a good missionary book was occasionally published in the church bulletin. In another church the missionary committee arranged with a goodly number of persons to be on the lookout for interesting and important missionary items in books and periodicals reporting the same to a committee who arranged a special time for making these reports.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Suffering Servant of Jehovah, Isaiah 53:1-12 for Sunday, April 28.

This prophecy relates to the servant, who has been differently interpreted; the prevailing view is that the term, "servant" is first considered as the Jewish nation which was peculiarly the Servant of God among the nations of the world and then by progressive restriction and clearer definition, to the righteous element of the nation, and finally to the suffering Christ, the great servant.

V. 1.—"Who hath believed our message? And to whom hath the arm of Jehovah been revealed?" Isaiah's message concerning God's servant, so abused and yet so glorious, Jehovah's very arm of power, is so strange and gracious as to pass the credence of men.

V. 2.—"For he grew up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground. For the servant is compared to a new plant growing up before God out of an old stump in a dry ground, the old stump being Judaism and the dry ground being the sad conditions of the times.

V. 3.—"He was despised and rejected of men." The composer, Handel, was once found with his face on the table, sobbing like a child. Before him lay the score of his oratorio, "Messiah" open at the place where it is written, "he was despised, he was rejected." There is something heartbreaking in the thought of a love so divine wasting itself on foolish and ungrateful men"—Burrell.

V. 4.—"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God and afflicted." The Servant is to be loathsomely smitten as if he had leprosy; though he is innocent and suffering with our sickness, men are to look upon him as punished by God for his own sins.

V. 5.—"But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." The figure passes from that of leprosy to the beatings which a slave might receive. So the Servant is to be lashed with the things that should be laid upon us.

V. 6.—"All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and Jehovah hath laid upon him the iniquity of us all. Man at his best has somewhere left God's safe road. We see Jehovah conducting the atonement, as Abraham laid on Isaac the wood for his one sacrifice."

MACKMEN ARE LEADING RACE IN AMERICAN

Athletics Make It Two Out of Three From Yanks As Quinn Shows Stuff.

NEW YORK, April 27 — The Philadelphia Athletics, who laddered themselves out of the American league pennant last year when they dropped 16 out of 22 starts to the Yankees, had shed their inferiority complex as they faced the New Yorkers in Philly today. By trimming the world's champions yesterday, 5 to 2, the Mackmen made it two wins in three starts against the Huggins this year, and now hold undisputed possession of first place.

Herb Pennock, making his first start for the Yanks since neuritis crippled his pitching arm last August, was knocked out in the sixth after being nicked for ten hits. Unless the New York southpaw ace shows more stuff than he did yesterday, American league fans are going to see a real race instead of a runaway one.

The Yanks got only six hits off Jack Quinn, who was canned nearly 15 years ago by the New York club because he was alleged to be too old. Quinn would have scored a more decisive victory had not the Yanks pulled the first triple play of the season in the sixth inning. With the bases full, Hale's grounder was converted into a double play and Cochrane was picked off third base for the third out.

BRAVES ON TOP
The St. Louis Browns kept pace with the Athletics by knocking Red Faber out of the box and beating the White Sox, 7 to 3.

Those amazing Boston Braves regained first place in the National league by trimming the Giants, 4 to 2. Socks Siebold, with Reading last year and a minor leaguer a dozen years before that, outpitched the veteran Carl Mays. George Harper, former Giant, won the game by smacking a homer with two on bases.

Aided by Hornsby's triple with the bases full, the Cubs outscored the Pirates, 9 to 6. Chicago is still tied for second place with the Cardinals, who celebrated the raising of last year's pennant by trouncing Cincinnati, 9 to 2. Jess Haines, the leather-faced right-hander, held the Reds to four hits.

LOSES CLOSE ONE
Ad Liska of Washington, the submarine twirler from Minneapolis, held the Red Sox to six hits but lost a 2 to 1 decision when Rothrock doubled in the eighth.

The Brooklyn Robins staggered to the wire ahead of the Phillies, 7 to 6, for their third straight victory, and climbed out of the National league cellar, the slow-footed Robins surprised by pulling a triple steal.

Cleveland collected 20 hits, including four by Joey Sewell and four by Jameson, in taking an 11 to 5 slugfest from Detroit.

Clock Made for Pope Marvel of Ingenuity

The most beautiful clock in England is said to be found in the British museum. It is believed to have been made by Pope Sixtus V. that pontiff, brought up (as some tell) a swineherd, who amused, when he reached the holy see, such treasures as he had of the wealth of Europe, to whom much of the magnificence of Rome is owed.

Three stories high it stands, telling on its dials the fast days, the signs of the Zodiac, the motions of the sun and moon in their course beside the minute dial a cherub raises a sieve as the hour strikes while his neighbor turns an hour glass over.

But you will need all your eyes for the topmost story, divided into four balconied tiers. On the lowest the gods of the days of the week pass slowly round. Above the Virgin and Child are seated, before whom angels make obeisance as they pass by. Next the four ages of man strike the quarters on a bell (on the topmost balcony death comes forward at the hour and strikes a bell, the figure of Our Lord retreating meanwhile).

Crowning it all is a beautifully modeled clock person on the dome and when the chimes have rung he taps his wings and cries:

It was not until Edward VII began reigning in 1901 that the bowls reappeared.—Detroit News

"Al" SIMMONS

THE HEAVY SLUGGING OUTFIELDER OF THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS.

I GOT IT!
COVERING PLenty OF TERRITORY...
WITH HAAS AN' MILLER, SIMMONS COMPLETES WHAT CONNIE MACK CALLS HIS MIGHTIEST OUTFIELD.

AL WAS KNOCKING COCONUTS OFF THE PALMS OUTSIDE THE FLORIDA PENS THIS SPRING AN' LOOKS LIKE POISON TO THE PITCHERS AGAIN THIS SUMMER.

By QUIN HALL

WHEN the first averages are let loose in the American League you will likely find the name of Al Simmons, of the Philadelphia Athletics, very near the top, if he's not really doing the leading.

Simmons did a great job of hitting last year. He finished with a mark of .351. When the team was conditioning at Fort Myers between busing hither and thither to play exhibition games—Al was parking the apple in the four corners of the lot and doing it consistently.

The form displayed by Simmons early in the Spring grind brought a lot of joy to the heart of Connie Mack, who still has visions of grabbing another yard or two of bunting before he gives up the business of managing the Athletics.

Down in Florida, Mack freely admitted that in Simmons, Haas, and Miller, he figured that he had the mightiest outfield he has ever possessed in his long career on the diamond. Unless one of the trio is injured or goes into a terrible slump, it is likely that they will be seen regularly working the tail grass sections of the American League ball yards. Simmons is not only showing strong again with the stick, but he is fast on his pins and covers plenty of territory.

Mack, as has been stated, entered this year's gallop with practically the same club which overtook the Yankees last year, and then faded to a cold dead-end, and dropped again into the second hole where they eventually finished the center. Now Mack has dropped some of the expensive old timers whom he tried to win with in 1921.

The only "old man" who is still on Mack's payroll is "Big Jack" Quinn, the spit ball twirler, and there is no reason to believe that he will not be as effective as he was last season when he won 18 against 7. Naturally the ace in the A's deck is Lefty Grove, who again looks capable. In 1921, Lefty turned in 24 victories against 8 losses. Mack is still retaining Walberg, Rommel, Ehmske, and Earnshaw as first string fingers. There are a lot of fellows who will tell you that the last named is due for a big year.

George Earnshaw, the former Swarthmore College twirler, toiled for years at Baltimore before he finally got his chance to fling his offerings to major league hitters.

He was pretty well worn down from his work in the League and in his first year at Philadelphia he was out. But in spots he showed brilliantly and the sharpshooters are predicting that this year will find him in his place among the strike kings of the country. To judge their prediction on the fact that, in the 26 games Earnshaw worked on the mound last season, he fanned 117 batters. In all, the big fellow toted 185 innings, 17 2-9 complete games. This would make his average per game better than Grove's. As Lefty whiffed an average of six men per game. This summer, the Earnshaw rooters are already tapping "Big George" as a strike king with at least 200 fanners to his credit by the end of the season.

If this happens, and Grove continues to cut out, it looks like a tough summer for the American League batters who hope to pad up their hitting averages at the expense of the Athletic fingers.

Mack seems to have a well-balanced ball club but it looks stronger on paper than it was last season and it will have to be stronger if it hopes to come home at the end of the year with the bacon.

FINE PICTURE AT CLIFTONA

Five years from now the talkies and the films with music will probably have been made more nearly perfect. Each picture filmed with synchronized music is better than the last, and with each new picture placed on the market, the realization of the intricacies of the talkies, becomes more apparent.

One of the best sound pictures, "Lady of the Pavements" will be shown for the first time Saturday night at the Cliftona theater. Lupu Valez plays and sings the part of the little cabaret dancer who is suddenly transplanted into royal society. The transition of the entertainer from "The Smoking Dog" her place of employment, to the graceful and beautiful wife of royalty is very natural. Of course there is a reason for bringing a girl of the streets into this situation, but the tragedy strikes at the girl instead of the man for whom it was intended. But the finish is all that one could wish for, and William Boyd as a virile hero, looks well in one of the many uniforms seen in the picture.

The theme song, "Where is the Song of Songs for Me," is familiar to many, and all who see the picture will be humming the melody for days after the show. The picture is a United Artist production, and nothing has been spared in back ground.

"Hope Chest" Forest

The little larkish town of Hope Chest is a forest not like any other forest in the world. No oak tree is a potential hope chest. No pine tree can ever go in the marriage market without a hope chest. No fir tree can have a love affair without a hope chest. So it is a place for every man to go, a place where he is blessed with a new hope chest. It grows up with him, and when the time comes to start the marriage hope chest the man can draw out an ample supply of them. This device is applied on the place. Every tree in this magical forest is named for a girl.

Walter Hagen, captain of the American Ryder cup team, is just giving Major J. H. Batley, secretary of the British Golf Association, a chance to see what the Ryder trophy feels like. The Hag brought the famous cup over to London with him on the chance that the British team would win, but he and his fellow golfers have no intention of letting it stay there.

If this happens and Grove continues to whiff 'em, it looks like a tough summer for the American League batters who hope to pad up their hitting averages at the expense of the Athletic fingers.

Mack seems to have a well-balanced ball club, but it looks no stronger on paper than it was last season and it will have to be stronger, if it hopes to come home at the end of the year with the bacon.

Simmons is not only showing strong again with the stick, but he is fast on his pins and covers plenty of territory.

Mack, as has been stated, entered this year's gallop with practically the same club which overtook the Yankees last year, and then failed to hold their lead, and dropped again into the second hole where they eventually finished the center. Now Mack has dropped some of the expensive old timers whom he tried to win with in 1928.

The only "old man" who is still on Mack's payroll is "Big Jack" Quinn, the spit ball twirler, and there is no reason to believe that he will not be as effective as he was last season when he won 18 against 7. Naturally the ace in the A's deck is Lefty Grove, who again looks capable. In 1928, Lefty turned in 24 victories against 8 losses. Mack is still retaining Walberg, Remond, Elmke, and Earnshaw as first string fingers. There are a lot of fellows who will tell you that the last named is due for a big year.

George Earnshaw, the former Swarthmore College twirler, toiled for years at Baltimore before he finally got his chance to fling his offerings to major league hitters.

Five years from now the talkies and the films with music will probably have been made more nearly perfect. Each picture filmed with synchronized music is better than the last, and with each new picture placed on the market, the realization of the intricacies of the talkies, becomes more apparent.

One of the best sound pictures, "Lady of the Pavements" will be shown for the first time Saturday night at the Cliftona theater. Lupe Valez plays and sings the part of the little cabaret dancer who is suddenly transplanted into royal society. The transition of the entertainer from "The Smoking Dog" her place of employment, to the graceful and beautiful wife of royalty is very natural. Of course there is a reason for bringing a girl of the streets into this situation, but the tragedy strikes at the girl instead of the man for whom it was intended. But the finish is all that one could wish for, and William Boyd as a virile hero, looks well in one of the many uniforms seen in the picture. The theme song, "Where is the Song of Songs for Me," is familiar to many, and all who see the picture will be humming the melody for days after the show. The picture is a United Artist production, and nothing has been spared in back ground.

"Hope Chest" Forest

The little Turkish town of Tschekirge owns a forest not like any other forest in the world. Every tree is a potential hope chest. So rich are the trees with gold, that in the marriage market without a hope chest for Tschekirge girls have always had hope chests. So it is a custom for every father to plant a tree when he is blessed with a new daughter. It grows up with the girl, and when the time comes to marry her, the father presents the tree to the bride. The tree is then cut up and small gifts are distributed. This custom is applied on the chest. Every tree in this municipal forest is named for a girl.

Temple Fishing Ground

The Grand Bank is a submarine phenomenon in the North Atlantic, extending eastward from Newfoundland. It is noted for its fishing grounds. Its depth is from 20 to 50 fathoms.

British Monarch's Title

James I. of England used the title of "King of Great Britain" instead of "King of England and Scotland," and even went so far as to have it placed on his coins. In 1604 he asked parliament to consent to the new title, but fears were expressed that the loss of the title of King of Scotland might be jeopardized and the commons argued that some agreement as to the terms of union precede assumption of the title. James finally yielded to the advice of his minister, Robert Cecil, and the change was deferred. The title did not receive parliamentary sanction until the Act of Union 1707.

Here! Just Hold This Awhile

Walter Hagen, captain of the American Ryder cup team, is just giving Major J. H. Batley, secretary of the British Golf Association, a chance to see what the Ryder trophy feels like. The Haig brought the famous cup over to London with him on the chance that the British team would win, but he and his fellow golfers have no intention of letting it stay there.

PUT IT TO THESE ELEVEN TESTS

The only true test of performance is personal experience. Take a trial drive in an Oldsmobile and find out for yourself, not only what it does, but how it does it. Match it against other cars and make comparisons. Give it these eleven tests . . . or any others . . . and check results by any standard of performance you care to set.

1. TEST EASE OF CONTROL

When you relax in the driver's seat, notice its comfort—the convenient arrangement of controls and dash instruments. Try the new Tubor adjustable front seat. Oldsmobile's adjustable steering wheel adds to your comfort. Step on the starter and note its prompt engagement. Test the easy action of the clutch—the silent, easily-meshed gear-shift.

2. TEST GETAWAY

Observe how easily and smoothly Oldsmobile gets away from the curb—how easy it is to steer. Pull up to a stoplight. Then flash ahead when the signal says "Go." Measure Oldsmobile's swift, stagemen pick-up in all gears.

3. TEST HANDLING EASE

Drive through thickest traffic. Learn how Oldsmobile's instant response to accelerator, brakes, and steering wheel simplifies city driving. At any speed, in traffic or on the road, Oldsmobile is easy to handle and restful to drive.

4. TEST SMOOTHNESS

Drive Oldsmobile out on the open road. Cover the face of the speedometer with glove or handkerchief . . . take your accustomed touring pace . . . then note the speedometer reading . . . you will be astonished to find how fast you are traveling.

5. TEST RIDING COMFORT

Oldsmobile seats are wide and deep-cushioned. Interiors are roomy and ### restful. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers function in harmony with Oldsmobile's special alloy-steel springs to smooth out all road irregularities. Drive this finer Oldsmobile over choppy pavements, over ruts and bumps. Whether you take them at high speeds or slow, you'll find that all roads ride comfortably in an Oldsmobile.

6. TEST ACCELERATION IN HIGH GEAR

When you pass other cars on the road, mark Oldsmobile's quick response to the throttle in all speed ranges—the smooth, effortless surge of power that enables you to sweep into the lead easily and surely.

7. TEST SPEED

Seek a straight, level stretch of highway and give Oldsmobile its head. You'll thrill to speeds far higher than the average motorist ever uses. Yet you'll feel secure, perfectly relaxed—for Oldsmobile's speed is as restful as it is exhilarating.

8. TEST HILL-CLIMBING ABILITY

Send Oldsmobile up the longest, steepest hill you know. Start at the bottom at various speeds. You'll find the tremendous power reserve in Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower engine gives it wonderful hill-climbing ability. If it's power you want, you can't match this Oldsmobile at its new lower price.

9. TEST ROADABILITY

One of the greatest joys in driving this finer Oldsmobile results from its splendid roadability. A low center of gravity, balanced weight, and four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers all are contributing factors to Oldsmobile's ability to hug the road at any speed.

10. TEST THE BRAKES

Check Oldsmobile's braking system for safety. Oldsmobile's four-wheel safety brakes not only are exceptionally efficient, but are smooth, quiet, and easy to operate as well.

11. TEST PARKING EASE

Deliberately select a small space at the curb and park this Oldsmobile. Fingert steering and a short turning radius make it easy to slip into small parking places. The easy clutch, brake, and gear-shift action allows you to take full advantage of every inch of space.

These eleven tests will give you a comprehensive idea of all phases of Oldsmobile's performance. They also afford an excellent basis of comparison with other cars. Thousands of motorists who have given Oldsmobile these and other tests have made it their car of choice. Come, drive this car and judge it, at its new lower price, by your own standards of performance and value.

KNOWING HOW TO FEED INFANT IS IMPORTANT

Dr. Copeland, Calling Attention to the String Test of Feeding in the Orient, Is Thankful that American Mothers Are Versed in Scientific Methods.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York City
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

FORTUNATE indeed is the babe born in an enlightened land. With popular education and wide-spread instruction in the care of infants, the American baby is blessed indeed.

When we contrast the scientific feeding of our youngsters with what is done in certain lands, we must rejoice that we know how to care for the little ones. I want you to read how a recent writer describes the care of infants in one part of the Orient.

After a beautiful tribute to the mother love, telling how the child is idolized, the author laments the ignorance of the uneducated and uninformed parent. The mother "would never discipline the child, even though she knew the meaning of the word." Listen:

"She has not the vaguest conception how to feed him or develop him. Her idea of a sufficient meal is to tie a string around his little brown body and stuff him till the string bursts."

Isn't this terrible?

Thank God, the mothers of modern civilization are not limited in their knowledge of how to feed a baby. Neither are they bound by the blindness of tradition. Our mothers are eager to find the very best way to deal with their children and they are free to apply their knowledge. That is why the infant death rate is steadily decreasing.

I have often said that the degree of civilization is measured by the infant death rate. That standard determines the progress of a community.

I shall never forget the quiet and modest admonition of the chief personal assistant to the Commissioner of Health after I took charge of the Health Department of New York City. This good woman called my attention to a graphic chart, showing the infant death rate. "The success or failure of your administration will be determined by what is added to this chart during your administration."

The full significance of this statement did not dawn upon me at once. But the more I learned of public health work, the more I became convinced that the way we care for the babies determines our humanity, our scientific knowledge, our real civic progress.

There is little more to say today. It is enough to add that the foundation of health is laid in the early years of life. The usefulness of the adult, the ability to think straight and to work hard, the physique to meet successfully the contests of life—all these depend on the mother's wisdom applied in those early years.

From time to time, infant feeding will be discussed in this column. No American mother will depend on the breaking of a string as a test of sufficient feeding. She will know exactly what must be fed, how much must be fed, and what must not be given her baby. By the application of simple rules of hygiene her precious infant will wax strong.

BIBLE THOUGHT

MY GOD SEES—Shall I count them pure with the wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights? For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth. Therefore also will I make thee sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of my sins.—Micah 6:11, 12, 13.

PRAYER—"God is working His Purpose out as year succeeds to year."

SABBATH AND THE SENATE

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader and candidate for the vice-presidency in the recent election, did a commendable service in causing the Senate to vote against any ordinary legislative business on the Sabbath. Senator Robinson said in part:

"Mr. President, by custom universal in every part of the United States, the Sabbath day has been set apart as a day for rest and worship. Only under conditions of emergency or of imperative necessity does the Christian spirit of this nation prompt or justify the action of its citizens when they engage in toil on that day. . . . It is an unwholesome practice for the Congress of the United States to engage in the transaction of business on the Sabbath except under such conditions as make it imperative to do so. . . . I believe that proposition will appeal to all Senators who have respect for the moral law which governs throughout this Republic."

A sufficient number of Senators agreed with him, and the Senate adjourned without doing any business. This was a wholesome tribute to the place which the Sabbath holds in our national life.

SOLAR DEATH RAY.

A Berlin scientist warns the world of another cosmic peril. The sun is discharging invisible death rays at the earth. These are far shorter and more penetrating than the light rays visible to the human eye and the life-giving ultra-violet rays.

No need to worry, though. Old Sol has been shooting those deadly darts at us ever since there was life on this earth, and no harm has come from it yet. If the death rays could get through the atmosphere, far above the highest mountain top, there is a shell of impenetrable armor consisting of pure oxygen, in which they are transformed into harmless heat rays.

This is only another example of the innumerable things that might destroy us, and don't. When we consider the apparent delicacy and fragility of every form of living thing, and the terrific hostile forces that surround and face us at every point, we can't help wondering that life survives at all.

Yet life seems to be about the most durable thing on earth. The everlasting rock melts away. "The hills are vapor, and they change from form to form, and nothing stands." Yet life persists through it all.

Traced to Crusaders

The sword salute originated in the time of the Crusaders when the bill of the sword was made in the form of a cross. Every Crusader kissed the cross as a seal of his purpose and faith and swore by the bill of the sword, raising it to his lips for that purpose. Another custom passed down to the ages from the Crusaders, and one that has been a custom in all Christian navies since then, is that of placing an officer's cap and sword on his coffin during burial service. The Crusader's shield and arms covered him in death.

SLEIGHING PARTY

As soon as the Moon was up the Brownies, dressed in warm winter woolen clothes, and the Gnomes in little fur suits, started off for their sleighing party.

As they went along the nice smooth road, and the bells on their horses jingled merrily, the Brownies and Gnomes told stories and laughed and joked.

They rode ever and ever so far, and all along the trip Mr. Moon went along with them. Until late they rode, and all the horses seemed to go faster all the time.

"It's almost time for supper," said the Gnomes.

"Where shall we go for supper?" asked the Brownies.

"Oh, we can have supper anywhere," said the Gnomes.

"What?" asked the Brownies in surprise.

"Certainly," said the Gnomes. "Hidden under these seats are baskets, and they are filled with all the goodies we have brought with us."

"There are hot soups, and hot chocolate to drink which we have put in bottles which always keep warm, and there are sandwiches and everything nice."

"We tried to bring a nice supper, when you were so kind as to tell us some time ago you always liked our suppers."

"Well," said the Brownies, "to think that our supper was with us all the time and we didn't know it."

"But you didn't want it before, did you?" asked the Gnomes.

"Oh, no," said the Brownies. "We are just hungry now."

"Well, let's start right in."

So they all sat on the long sleigh where they had been riding, and the curled up their feet under their coats, and they sat.

The supper was certainly marvelous, and the Brownies said they had known the Gnomes were clever, but now they thought they were more wonderful than ever.

The Gnomes were so pleased with the Brownies' praise.

The horses turned their heads around when the Gnomes hopped off the sleigh and gave the horses some nice hay and lumps of sugar they had brought along.

For of course when the horses had given them such a wonderful ride they could not be forgotten at supper time.

Mr. Moon was still overhead in the sky and watched all the fun.

"I shall not leave," he said, "until you do. Miss such fun as this?"

"Never in the wide, wide world."

The little stars kept twinkling and twinkling and sang this song:

Up in the sky

We are so high,

But down below

Over the snow,

We've watched the ride,

And have helped as light and guide.

So the sleighing party was a great success, and before it was over they said they would have another one before long, which was very happy thought indeed.

Just Practicing

Marjorie was left in charge of her baby brother in his crib outside the grocer's door. He began to cry, and when a woman came to Marjorie's assistance from an auto close by and began violently to joggle the crib up and down, he gave vent to his spleen in lusty protest, which caused the helper to exclaim nervously: "Mercy! That's surely the crossdest baby I ever saw."

"Oh," said Marjorie, coming to little brother's defense as usual. "His mother's nervous."

"His mother's nervous?" said the woman, who had learned that and his mother's placidly."

CHAPTER LXXVI.

SHE gazed at him with her strange, unearthly smile. "He didn't know you wanted him," she said softly. "He only lived an hour or so."

He stared at her, startled but uncomprehending. "What did you say, Lilith?"

"Your son!" she said, still more softly, but clearly.

He sprang to his feet, his body quivering. He thrust out his hands blindly. "My son?"

She nodded, without speaking. Her lips still wore their frozen smile.

"Good God in heaven! When? Where?"

"Eight months after you left me. In a little back apartment. He's buried somewhere—under a false name. He didn't have one of his own, you see."

Each word dropped as if distilled from frozen acid.

"And I didn't know!" He staggered a little, and caught at the chair back for support.

"I think you were at Deauville at the time."

He sank back into his chair and bowed his head in his hands. "Who was—with you?"

"My stepmother. She took care of me. Kept my secret even from my father—because she loved him so. Dr. Lundy came and stayed by me—because he loved my stepmother so much. . . . I mentioned at the time that I had met a different brand of devotion."

His face, uplifted, had a grayish pallor, and his nostrils quivered. "And there hasn't been an hour since I left you—when I haven't thought of you, longed for you! I wake up in the middle of the night thinking I hear you laugh—as you used to."

"And I wake up in the night—thinking I hear him cry!" she said softly.

She bent her jeweled head, as if to listen.

He snatched her hand in his and kissed it over and over again. His tears dropped on it. But she shed no tears.

He straightened up and gazed into her eyes, as if he would spill his soul in one long look.

"Oh, my little love!" he cried. His arms stretched out to sweep her to him, but her gaze forbade him. An icy, invisible barrier separated them. Only their eyes met, haunted, tormented. . . .

A man came around the corner of a clump of palms, an erect old man, with a beaked nose and fierce, deep-set eyes, like a sick old eagle on a rock.

He halted, surprised at the tableau he saw.

Bill's arms dropped to his sides.

A look of hate smoldered in his face.

"And this is—your grandfather?" asked Lilith.

"Yes!" The word was like an imprecation.

The old man stood waiting to be presented to the girl.

At last Bill managed. "This is—Lilith."

"Lilith?" he asked, not instantly taking in the situation, but with apprehension in the deep-set, tired eyes.

"Yes, grandfather. The girl I loved—more than anything in the world. That you kept me from marrying!"

The old man staggered a trifle, as from the impact of a blow, but his cane supported him.

Lilith looked at him, her face all a luminous pallor, out of which her great mournful blue eyes gazed.

"I am something more than that," she spoke softly. "I am the woman who bore his son—in secrecy and shame. His son, that only lived an hour. . . . He looked just like Bill!"

The grandfather's face was ghastly pale, like a mummy unsheathed that sudden exposure to light, to a touch, would crumble.

His cane rattled a little on the floor as he steadied himself.

"You—are staying here?" he jerked out.

"I—came to see Bill once more," she told him. "I had to see him—just once. He didn't understand, you see."

"I didn't—understand, either," came from the mummified lips.

"He thought me light—a wanton, perhaps?" The jeweled head lifted proudly. "A girl he could take for the price of a cabaret supper."

"No!" came the tortured cry from Bill. But she paid him no heed.

The little fountain tinkled foolishly into the silence, and the far-off music sounded like a dream, while the dim roar of the city swept into the room.

The clear young voice went on. "I had to tell him that I gave myself to him that night in the heart of the labyrinth (you remember, Bill?)—not lightly, but royally, as a queen might—because of a great love."

The two men gazed at her, incapable of speech.

"You made him think, perhaps, that I was after his money. I was, at first. . . . But then I came to love—Bill. . . . To love him so much—because I'd never loved anyone before in all my life. . . . If you had cast him off—I would have clung to him and run laughing with him down any country lane—a barefoot gypsy—happy for the chance to starve with him. I would have—scrubbed floors—done any menial work—for him."

Bill gave a gesture of intolerable pain. The old man's eyes burned into hers as she went on.

"I had such hopes of him. I wanted to help him to be the man I saw he could be—a man of honor, as well as a boy to love."

I wanted to help him—be that man. . . . Instead, he married Sally, and I watched his son die—because an old man was a tyrant and a young man was a coward."

A weariness came into her voice. "I had to tell him this. . . . So I sold my soul, as well as my body, for a ticket to Paris."

Bill stifled a groan and turned his face away.

"Just—how?" crackled the old man, throatily.

"I had no money. I married, just to get to Paris."

"But you did—marry the man?" he probed.

"Yes, that's the sin of it. You see, he was my young half-sister's sweetheart. I stole him from her just before their wedding day. . . . After my stepmother had nursed me through my trouble, kept my secret, even from my father."

"Good God!" said the old man. "I felt I had to tell Bill how I had loved him—how I hated him. But that can't give my little sister's sweetheart back to her. Nor my husband's honor back to him. Nor Bill's little son!"

She turned to go.

The old man reached out a quivering hand in entreaty. "Lilith! Wait!"

She turned again to face him. "Yes?"

He spoke with difficulty. "The truth about Bill! . . . He loved you. He wasn't a coward, except as I made him one—and it wasn't my cursed money that held him. He threw that in my face and swore he'd go back to you."

"He didn't come," she said.

"No, I cheated him. I took advantage of his pity. I told him if he went it would break an old man's heart and kill me. . . . The tired voice faltered. "But—this old heart of mine still goes on beating—even after I know what I did to him—and to you!"

She smiled, a strange, unearthly smile. "Hearts go on beating after they are dead."

"Yes!" cried Bill.

"She smiled again at the old man. 'I came to tell him how I hated him. But I don't—hate him. I'm in quest of her.'"

"There is my husband. I must go," she said. She shivered.

She turned to go and then gave a long backward look. "Good-bye, Bill!"

KNOWING HOW TO FEED INFANT IS IMPORTANT

Dr. Copeland, Calling Attention to the String Test of Feeding in the Orient, Is Thankful that American Mothers Are Versed in Scientific Methods.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

FORTUNATE indeed is the babe born in an enlightened land. With popular education and wide-spread instruction in the care of infants, the American baby is blessed indeed.

When we contrast the scientific feeding of our youngsters with what is done in certain lands, we must rejoice that we know how to care for the little ones. I want you to read how a recent writer describes the care of infants in one part of the Orient.

After a beautiful tribute to the mother love, telling how the child is idolized, the author laments the ignorance of the uneducated and uninformed parent. The mother "would never discipline the child, even though she knew the meaning of the word." Listen:

"She has not the vaguest conception how to feed him or develop him. Her idea of a sufficient meal is to tie a string around his little brown body and stuff him till the string bursts." Isn't this terrible?

Thank God, the mothers of modern civilization are not limited in their knowledge of how to feed a baby. Neither are they bound by the blindness of tradition. Our mothers are eager to find the very best way to deal with their children and they are free to apply their knowledge. That is why the infant death rate is steadily decreasing.

I have often said that the degree of civilization is measured by the infant deaths. That standard determines the progress of a community.

I shall never forget the quiet and modest admonition of the chief personal assistant to the Commissioner of Health of New York City. This good woman called my attention to a graphic chart, showing the infant deaths. "The success or failure of your administration will be determined by what is added to this chart during your administration."

The full significance of this statement did not dawn upon me at once. But the more I learned of public health work, the more I became convinced that the way we care for the babies determines our humanity, our scientific knowledge, our real civic progress.

There is little more to say today. It is enough to add that the foundation of health is laid in the early years of life. The usefulness of the ability to think straight and to work hard, the physique to meet successfully the contests of life—all these depend on the mother wisdom applied in those early years.

From time to time, infant feeding will be discussed in this column. No American mother will depend on the breaking of a string as a test of sufficient feeding. She will know exactly what must be fed, how much must be fed, and what must not be given her baby. By the application of simple rules of hygiene her precious infant will wax strong.

JOURNALISTS VISIT

Ho hum, I must tell you people about that trip to Columbus. Just got off the car and am so sleepy but the trip was O. K. with minor mishaps (Frosh got lost etc.) but the Dispatch held many disappointments.

There wasn't a single inkspat-tered reporter there! Everyone of them looked just like ordinary people!

Also I always thought a newspaper office was full of literary people but although I looked the entire place over I saw only working business men.

"Saw the funnies for several months" ahead, but they were upside down and I don't know any more than I did before.

One of those obliging persons gave me a piece of newspaper (before anything was printed on it) for a souvenir and another gave me a piece of type metal which I will mount and place in the journalism room, maybe.

After absorbing several notes,
books full of the Dispatch plant,
we gathered pencils, notebooks and other paraphernalia and prepared to visit the Stomacher Press.

That also was full of surprises.
Saw one big bill, (they print advertising bills you know) but couldn't make out what it was advertising because it was only half done.

Probably you had noticed several mistakes in this issue. If you have, that is fine, we are trying to put this out just like a REAL NEWSPAPER.

Well folks I'm very sleepy, but I knew you would want to hear something about our trip to Columbus so I hurried home, almost missed the last car but here you are. Next week I'll give you all the details.

The initiating team consisted of the president as the stage manager, faculty director as director, secretary-treasurer as guide, and the prompter. Initiating services are very solemn and idealistic and are often open to the public. Installation services, however, were secret.

Those who stood the tests of the initiation and are full fledged Thespians are: Martha Mary
Wolfe, Evan Phillips, Virginia
Given, Carl Wallace, Alice Roof,
Hortense Reid, Irma Rader, Joe
Griffith, Esther Drum, Dorothy
Dennan, Jeanne Crowe, Veronica
Kuhns, Harold Dumm, Howard
Greene, and Minnie Lyle.

The pledges Harry Grant and Earl Hussey were unable to attend the initiatory services. They will probably be admitted as members in the near future.

WHAT I HAVE ALWAYS

"All my life I have wanted a trip to my sunny Spain, to see the quaint old buildings, I have always wanted to go to the Al-pambra in Seville. It is said that in one part the people dress as the Spaniards of olden times did. They dance and sing in the evenings and travelers go there to see them as it was in olden times. There is a beautiful seaport on a peninsula near Gibraltar that is surrounded by a break-wall 20 feet thick.
I want to see Seville, Cadix because it is one of the very ancient places in the world.
But I don't wish to see a bull fight. The men with their red capes who madden the bull are very ferocious.
I intend to imagine that I am in Spain and go to the Belle of Barcelona and maybe someday I will have to imagine I am in Seville, Cadix, Gibraltar, and all the other places in Spain."

Herbert, who is about to be married, said to the Belle of Barcelona, "You are next."

O. E. S. INSPECTION

Inspection of Purity Chapter
No. 65, was held in the Masonic temple Tuesday night. A two course dinner served at 6:30 o'clock was enjoyed by more than 200 members and visitors. Pink and white was the color scheme and with flowers made the lodge room and tables very charming.
Emblematic decorations being used for the occasion. Mrs. Estella Free, of Bainbridge, deputy grand matron of the 23rd district was the inspecting officer. In her report before the chapter Mrs.
Free offered little criticism and complimented the work of Purity chapter as being excellent. Miss Lena May presented a beautiful gift from Purity chapter to the society in appreciation for the society's praise to the order.

Other distinguished guests were Lion C. C. Chapplear of Circleville, Grand Patron of Ohio, Mrs.
Boise T. Boise of Columbus,

Eva J. Penn, Washington C. H.,
Past Grand Matron of Ohio; Mrs.
Laura McGreer, of Columbus, who has charge of the "Traveling Bible." Short talks were made by each of these guests, words of praise were given to Worthy Matrons Maggie Ankrom, Worthy Patron Charles Shasteen and their corps of officers who exemplified the Eastern Star work splendidly.
Visitors were present from Cedarville, Columbus, Chillicothe, Washington C. H., Bainbridge, Circleville and other towns.

BANQUET HELD
IN NEW HOLLAND
The New Holland Junior-Senior banquet was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas.
M. Clifton, parents of one of the juniors.
The spacious rooms were pretty decorations, bearing out the Senior class colors of royal blue and gold at every convenient appointment. The same scheme was used lavishly in the serving of the dinner of four delicious courses.
Centering the small tables, which were arranged neatly about the reception rooms, were artistic tapers of royal blue, etched in gold. Cartoons cut-outs of cardboard, each one picturing a member of the honored class and the facility, and inscribed with the respective name, served as very artistic and novel place cards. These were the art work of McKinley Stinson, of Cleveland, who has three nieces in the junior class A yellow tea-rosebud, the graduating class flower, also marked each cover. Ice cream moulded into beautiful yellow rosebuds also featured, the dessert course of the pleasing dinner.

Seated at the honor guest table were the members of the Senior class, including Ethel Melvin, Ruth Hunter, Edith Cook, Geraldine
Jennings, Geneva Speaken, Marjorie Louis, Helen Grimes, Clarence Cook, Junior Vincent and Robert Timmons. Other guests included Superintendent P. O. Wagner, Principal, Merle Sumpton; Assistant Principal, Miss Katharine Baker; Musical Director, Miss Elizabeth Wottring.

Additional favors were presented to the honor guests, which included dainty corsages for the girls and boutonnières for the boys. The class colors of silver and old rose were very effectively used in the ribbons which tied these floral tokens.

Mrs. Percy May, Mrs. C. W.
Briggs, Mrs. W. K. Briggs, Miss
Lillie Briggs and Mrs. Sherman Grabill assisted Mrs. Clifton in making such a delightful banquet possible.

ENJOY LAST CONCERT
OF 1929 SEASON
Mrs. Noah Weaver, Mrs. James
P. Moffitt, Rev. and Mrs. Emil S.
Toensmeier, Miss Mary Heffner and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke attended the year's final concert of the Women's Music Club series, Friday night at the Memorial hall in Columbus. Four widely acclaimed stars borrowed from the world of opera, sang to a full house Friday night, in one of the most popular concerts of the season.

Mme. Florence Austral, soprano;
Miss Kathryn Meiste, contralto;
Mr. Paul Althouse, tenor and Mr.
William Gustafson, bass, the Grand Opera Quartet, are friendly, tireless artists. An unprecedented number of curtain calls, resulting in a gratifying number of encores, may have stolen some of the formality from the occasion, but added immeasurably to the delight of the typical audience of Columbus and surrounding towns.

It is always happy when the sheer insistence of its applause brings artists smiling back to the stage, notes in hand, for a fourth or fifth extra added favor.

ALL DAY MEETING

JOURNALISTS VISIT

Ho hum, I must tell you people about that trip to Columbus. Just got off the car and am so sleepy but—the trip was O. K. with minor mishaps (Frosh got lost etc.,) but the Dispatch held many disappointments.

There wasn't a single inkspattered reporter there! Everyone of them looked just like ordinary people!

Also I always thought a newspaper office was full of literary people but although I looked the entire place over I saw only working business men.

Saw the funnies for several "months" ahead, but they were upside down and I don't know any more than I did before.

One of those obliging persons gave me a piece of newspaper (before anything was printed on it) for a souvenir and another gave me a piece of type metal which I will mount and place in the journalism room, maybe.

After absorbing several notebooks full of the Dispatch plant, we gathered pencils, notebooks and other paraphernalia and prepared to visit the Stoneman Press. That also was full of surprises. Saw one big bill, (they print advertising bills you know) but couldn't make out what it was advertising because it was only half done.

Probably you had noticed several mistakes in this issue. If you have, that is fine, we are trying to put this out just like a REAL NEWSPAPER.

Well folks I'm very sleepy, but I knew you would want to hear something about our trip to Columbus so I hurried home, almost missed the last car but here you are. Next week I'll give you all the details.

The Staff.

The 15 highest scores were made as follows: Kenneth Ulm 207, George Colville, 193, Arthur Johnson, 192, Harry Butler, 188 1-2, Irma Rader 186, Evan Phillips 183 1-2, Joe Barnes 182, John Caldwell 181 1-2, Elliott Barnhill 179, Joe Griffith, 178, Marie Kellstadt 178, Alice Roof 178, John Terry 178, Veronica Kuhns 175 1-2, Charles Eitel 173 1-2, Hortense Reid 172 1-2, Emmitt Barnhart 170 1-2 and Harry Grant 168 1-2.

Tickets are on sale now by high school students. Admission is 35 cents. Reserved seats will be on sale April 30, at Wilder's drug store.

All officers are seniors.

The initiating team consisted of the president as the stage manager, faculty director as director, secretary-treasurer as guide, and the prompter. Initiating services are very solemn and idealistic and are often open to the public. Installation services, however, were secret.

WHAT I HAVE ALWAYS WANTED

"All my life I have wanted a trip to my sunny Spain, to see the quaint old buildings. I have always wanted to go to the Alhambra. In Seville, it is said that in one part the people dress as the Spaniards of olden times did. They dance and sing in the evenings and travellers go there to see Spain as it was in olden times. There is a beautiful seaport on a peninsula near Gibraltar that is surrounded by a brick wall 20 feet thick.

"I wouldn't miss seeing Cadiz because it was one of the very ancient Phoenician settlements.

"But most of all, I want to see a bull fight. The men with their red capes, who madden the bull are very fearless.

"I intend to imagine that I am in Spain when I go to the 'Belle of Barcelona' and maybe some day I won't have to imagine. I may see Spain in reality."

Her dreams are about to be realized. She has tickets to the "Belle of Barcelona." You're next.

CURRENT SCIENCE

Jane Mader and Zelma Betts wrote the best Current Science themes this week on the subject, "How Much Do You Know About the Green in Leaves?"

The following are their themes: The surface layer of the leaf is called the epidermis. The epidermis is transparent. Inside the epidermis is the mesophyll. The mesophyll of the leaf is made up of cells. Each cell has a thin transparent wall and includes a liquid and a mass of living substances and green granules. The upper green cells are long, narrow and cylindrical. The green color-green matter does not color the cells green throughout. In every cell, there are small round grains. The green is not on the leaf of the plant but inside the mesophyll which is inside the epidermis and is very transparent. Therefore we see the green in the epidermis and not in the outside of the leaf.

Pink and white was the color scheme and with flowers made the lodge room and tables very charming, emblematic decorations being used for the occasion. Mrs. Estella Free, of Bainbridge, deputy grand matron of the 23rd district was the inspecting officer. In her report before the chapter Mrs. Free offered little criticism and complimented the work of Purity chapter as being excellent. Miss Lena May presented a beautiful gift from Purity chapter to the deputy in appreciation for the words of praise to the order.

BANQUET HELD IN NEW HOLLAND

The New Holland Junior-Senior banquet was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Clifton, parents of one of the juniors.

The spacious rooms were pretty decorations, bearing out the Senior class colors of royal blue and gold at every convenient appointment. The same scheme was used lavishly in the serving of the dinner of four delicious courses.

Centering the small tables, which were arranged neatly about the reception rooms, were artistic tapers of royal blue, etched in lace of gold. Cartoons cut-outs of cardboard, each one picturing a member of the honored class and the faculty, and inscribed with the respective name, served as very artistic and novel place cards. These were the art work of McKinley Stinson, of Cleveland, who has three nieces in the junior class. A yellow tea-rosebud, the graduating class flower, also marked each cover. Ice cream moulded into beautiful yellow rosebuds also featured the dessert course of the pleasing dinner.

Seated at the honor guest table were the members of the Senior class, including Ethel Melvin, Ruth Hunter, Edyth Cook, Geraldine Jennings, Geneva Speakman, Marjorie Louis, Helen Grimes, Clarence Cook, Junior Vincent and Robert Timmons. Other guests included Superintendent P. O. Wagner; Principal, Merle Sumpton; Assistant Principal, Miss Katherine Baker; Musical Director, Miss Elizabeth Wottring.

Additional favors were presented to the honor guests, which included dainty corsages for the girls and boutonnières for the boys. The class colors of silver and old rose were very effectively used in the ribbons which tied these floral tokens.

Mrs. Percy May, Mrs. C. W. Briggs, Mrs. W. K. Briggs, Miss Lillie Briggs and Mrs. Sherman Grabbil assisted Mrs. Clifton in making such a delightful banquet possible.

ALUMNI BANQUET AT ADELPHI

The Adelphi High School Alumni banquet, the first of its kind in the history of the school, was a wonderful success in every respect. Alumni from many part of Ohio, and from other states were present. Many who had not seen each other for years had a chance to recall, together, many happy memories of school days here in Adelphi.

At 8 o'clock, the members of the Alumni assembled in the high school assembly room and organized for the coming year. Mr. P. S. Karshner was elected as president.

dent and Mrs. Elsie Armstrong as secretary and treasurer. A committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed. Also, an executive committee. It was decided that a fee of 50 cents a year be charged each member, in order to take care of all preliminary expenses each year. Many important questions were discussed in regard to projects for the good of the school.

At 9 o'clock, Alumni and guests went to the high school auditorium where a delicious three-course dinner was served. The auditorium was beautifully decorated in the Senior class color, old rose and silver.

After dinner a very interesting program was given. Some of the outstanding parts of this program were: the very, very interesting history of the school, prepared and read by Mr. Phil Karshner. This held the attention and interest of those present from the first to the last word. Next, the very beautiful poem, "Forty Years Ago," prepared and read by Mrs. Fry, the wife of Mr. Fry, who was principal here over 40 years ago. This poem was wholly original, and very fitting for the occasion. Many other interesting talks were given by Mr. Delano Butler, Mr. Fry, Mr. and Mrs. John Wittwer and others. The reading by Mrs. Rodacker, and the music by the Barton Sisters and Mrs. Marcella Dresbach were also enjoyed by all.

SURPRISE ON ANNIVERSARY

Porter Hiatt, a prominent Salt-creek farmer, met with his family relatives on Sunday, April 21, when after returning home from attending Sunday school at Turlington, he was reminded that his 60th birthday anniversary was staring him in the face, but that didn't seem to bother him much after he had kissed all the women folks and the pretty babies and seen all the well-filled baskets of good eats. It is needless to state that the affair was a most enjoyable one, as it was in the nature of a family reunion as most all guests were connected with the family circle.

ENJOY LAST CONCERT OF 1929 SEASON

Mrs. Noah Weaver, Mrs. James P. Moffitt, Rev. and Mrs. Emil S. Toensmeier, Miss Mary Heffner and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke attended the year's final concert of the Women's Music Club series, Friday night at the Memorial hall in Columbus. Four widely acclaimed stars borrowed from the world of opera, sang to a full house Friday night, in one of the most popular concerts of the season.

Mme Florence Austral, soprano; Miss Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Mr. Paul Althous, tenor and Mr. William Gustafson, bass, the Grand Opera Quartet, are friendly, tireless artists. An unprecedented number of curtain calls, resulting in a gratifying number of encores, may have stolen some of the formality from the occasion, but added immeasurably to the delight of the typical audience of Columbus and surrounding towns.

It is always happy when the shameless insistence of its applause brings artists smiling back to the stage, notes in hand, for a fourth or fifth extra added favor.
